EVERY FARM OUGHT TO HAVE A FANNING MILL!

By Marcia McCrary, Ypsilanti, Michigan

I first became aware of Bennett Fanning Mills when my husband brought one home. Being a city girl, I didn't even know what they were used for- which is to clean grain, such as wheat or oats. Bob bought it from a fellow in Canton Township, who remembered hearing from his father about picking it up in Plymouth. It is about the size of a short chest of drawers, has a crank and several screens. You pour the un-cleaned grain in at the top, turn the crank which shakes the screens, and remove the cleaned grain from the bottom. Greenfield Village (Firestone Farm) and the Plymouth Historical Museum both have Bennett Fanning Mills which look very similar to ours.

At the Edison Institute Archives is kept a series of books which contain 300 interviews of Henry Ford's friends, family and business associates. I saw a book with Bennett on the back. Because I am interested in four different Bennetts [C.H. Bennett, who was part of the Fanning Mill company; B.F. Bennett, for whom Bennett School in Superior Township is named; Harry Bennett, who worked for Henry Ford, and my great-great grandfather, Clark Lester Bennett] I picked it up. The book was an interview with Charles Henry Bennett, of Plymouth.

Mr. Bennett met Henry Ford in 1903 and became one of the original stockholders of the Ford Motor Company. He received 100% dividends for two years, then sold the stock in 1906 to A.V. Malcolmson, but remained friendly with Mr Ford. Mr. Bennett eventually became President of the Daisy Rifle Company (and Michigan Crown Fender).

Mr. Bennett had quite a way with words. The stories just seem to come rolling out. He tells that he was taking fanning mills around by wagon for his father, and that he never met a farmer who wanted to buy a fanning mill, he had to sell them. The fanning mill company was the first factory built in Plymouth. Mr. Henry Ledyard began it in 1850, at the southeast corner of Main and Union. Mr. Ledyard went to Grand Rapids in 1860, and the company was then owned and operated by C.H. Bennett's uncle, also named C.H. Bennett, and L.H. Bennett, our C.H.'s father. In 1866, our C.H. took some of the new rifles that his uncle and father were producing and sold them, along with the fanning mills, from his wagon. His main customers were the young sons of the farmers. The fanning mills were produced until 1890.

The family also experimented with producing windmills, but they ran into difficulties. In 1886, the officers of the Plymouth Iron Windmill Company were: C.B. Crosby, President; H.W. Baker, General Manager; L.C. Hough, Treasurer; and J.P. Woodard, Secretary.

The Plymouth Museum owns an interesting little book written by Cass S. Hough, the grandson of the founder of the Daisy Rifle Company, Lewis Cass Hough (who is another one of C.H.'s uncles). The title is It's a Daisy and it tells how Clarence J. Hamilton invented the all metal air rifle, then convinces Lewis Cass Hough, who was the Treasurer and General Manager of the Plymouth Iron Windmill Company, to produce the rifles. At one time, they were offered free to farmers who bought a Plymouth Iron Windmill.

C.H. Bennett's mother was a Baker. Her father, Samuel Baker (the 19th of 21 children) married Maria Marshall. They came to Cooper's Corners (North Territorial and Beck) in 1839. Caroline Baker was born in 1837 and married Lewis Hanchett Bennett. Caroline's sisters, noted in her obituary, were Marietta Baker (who married Lewis Cass Hough), Anna Baker, and "Mrs. John Adams." The Lewis H. Bennetts had two sons, Charles H. Bennett, and Fred F. Bennett. Fred is listed in a 1923 Polk's as the Vice-President of the Ypsilanti Hotel in Ypsilanti.

In 1891 or 1892, C.H. Bennett married Carrie L. Peck, daughter of J.D. Peck. They had no children but raised a niece, Pauline Peck. Listed in his obituary were four other nieces and nephews: Mrs. Lawrence Lyons of Plymouth, Mrs. Donald Haines of Seattle, Washington, Lewis Bennett of Seattle, and Edgar Peck of Plymouth.

Lewis Cass Hough was the son of Ira Marshall Hough, born 21 April 1803 in Rupert, Vermont, and Adeline Kingsley, born 5 April 1806 in Ira, Vermont. They married on the 29th of December 1825, and had eight children. See the Canton Township Cornerstones book for further information about them. She died in 1884 and he in 1886.

Knowing more about the families and the company made the Fanning Mill even more enjoyable to me. This article came about because I was trying to tie the various Bennetts together. Not having succeeded in doing so, I realized I had learned a great deal, and had an interesting story to tell.

AMERICAN GENEALOGICAL PERIODICALS

By Connstance K. Olson, Ann Arbor, Michigan

Part Two, continued from volume 16 page 44

A Sampling of Genealogical Periodicals

National

Periodicals published by major United States genealogical societies or having a general interest scope form a fairly small percentage of all the periodicals published. However, they often set the standards for many of the smaller ones. Most of them are published quarterly and have an annual index.

New England Historical and Genealogical Register (The Register)
Published continuously since 1847
Emphasis on early New England families
Compiled genealogies; source material

National Genealogical Society Quarterly
Established 1912
Compiled genealogies; source material; book reviews

The American Genealogist (TAG)
Founded by Donald Lines Jacobus
Known as New Haven Genealogical Magazine 1922-1932
Aims to improve genealogical standards
Specializes in early colonial period; genealogical criticism

The Genealogist Two issues per year
Established in 1980 by Dr. Neil D. Thompson
The journal of the Association for Promotion of Scholarship in Genealogy
Compiled genealogy; medieval genealogy; no source material; discussion of genealogical problems

Genealogical Journal
Established in 1972 by the Utah Genealogical Association
Emphasizes methodology; compiled genealogy

Regional

Periodicals which focus on a state or a group of counties within a state comprise some of the best known and most useful works. They often contain material which is not found elsewhere.

New York Genealogical and Biographical Record (The Record)
Founded in 1870
Emphasis on New York and New Jersey

Pennsylvania Genealogical Magazine Two issues per year
From 1892-1948 known as Publications of the Genealogical Society of Pa.

Recent years have featured a bibliographical series on Pennsylvania counties

Genealogical Magazine of New Jersey Three issue per year
Founded in 1925 by the Genealogical Society of New Jersey
Emphasis on source records, especially on cemetery transcriptions
Some compiled genealogy

Western Maryland Genealogy
Founded in 1985 by Donna Valley Russell
Abstracts of local county records; documented compiled genealogies

The Virginia Genealogist
Founded in 1957 by John Frederick Dorman
Source material; compiled genealogies; solution of difficult problems

The Detroit Society for Genealogical Research Magazine
Established in 1937
Publishes material from Michigan and Michigan source states
Includes colonial genealogy; compiled genealogies; source material

Essex Institute Historical Collections
Founded 1859
Genealogies; source records; witchcraft documents, early war diaries

The Essex Genealogist Essex (County, Mass.) Society of Genealogists
The Maine Seine Maine Genealogical Society
Rhode Island Roots Rhode Island Genealogical Society
Rhode Island Genealogical Register Annual
The Maryland and Delaware Genealogist

Ohio Records and Pioneer Families
Established by the Ohio Genealogical Society in 1960

The Hoosier Genealogist
Established in 1961 by the Genealogical Section of the Indiana Historical Society

Tree Talks
Published by Central New York Genealogical Society since 1961

Connecticut Nutmegger
The Kentucky Genealogist
The South Carolina Magazine of Ancestral Research

Local

Publications from local genealogical societies usually feature information on a particular county. Because they are so numerous, no attempt will be made here to list any of them. However, they often contain valuable information.

Special

Special interest periodicals cover a wide variety of subject matter. They can deal with a certain surname or family association, various ethnic groups, heraldry, etc. Publications of patriotic and hereditary societies would also fall in this category.

The Mayflower Descendant Two issues per year
Published by the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants 1899-1925; 1930-37; 1985-
Features source material from Plymouth Colony; documentation from membership files, compiled genealogy

The Name Index to Family History Capers Volume 16 (1992-1993), is an every-name index. Cross-references have been made for some possible variations in surname spellings. Maiden names, where known, are indexed. An unknown given name is indicated by ... and an unknown maiden name is recorded as (...). An illegible part of a word is recorded as ---. A name may appear more than once on a page.

Family History Capers is published quarterly by The Genealogical Society of Washtenaw County, Michigan, and is available with membership. Memberships begin with the fiscal year on July 1.
